AUBURN DEFEATS FLORIDA ALLIGATORS 7 TO 0

Fumbling Spoils The Game--Bidez With His Fine Bucking Makes It Possible For Wren to Score--Caughman Kicks Pretty Goal.

Drake Field, Oct. 9.—With the Gators fighting strongly and with bad fumbling on both sides, Auburn managed to score one touchdown.

The first half was extremely disappointing to the crowds in the stands because of the many misplays and fumbles and there were many worried Auburnites pulling for the team, but after Mike finished with the team during intermission there was a noted difference.

The shake-up in the line due to Williamson's ineligibility caused Robinson, C. C., to be changed to end and other changes which spoiled the machine like accuracy of the team but, in the second half these changes were rearranged and the ball was bucked, with one formation, the whole length of the field, Bidez running the ball, and being replaced by Wren two yards from the goal due to an injured leg received in scrimmage.

Shorty Wren, held to his reputation, and laid out flat with the ball just over the line for the only touchdown of the game. Caughman kicked a pretty goal.

Steed's run around left end for 25 yards was one of the prettiest incidents of the game, due to the fact that he managed to shake off nine different men who tackled him.

Caughman made some pretty returns and his speedy work showed up well.

Florida had a strong team and Thompson's fast work netted most of the gains and was largely responsible for three first downs for Florida. Sparkman's defensive work was good.

The tackling was extremely sharp and the defense was good.

As a close game it was good but it was extremely "worrysome" to sit and watch when you were pulling for Auburn.

The line-up was as follows:

Florida	Auburn
Farrior	Campbell
	Robinson
Collins	Taylor
Yorn	Fricke
Lotspeich	Sample
Goldsby	Wynne
Henderson	Robinson
	Steed
Robles	Bonner
Ramsdell	Caughman
Sparkman	Prendergast
Thompson	Steed
	Atkins
Fuller	Bidez
	Wren

Opening Dances Great Success Many Visitors Present

The autumnal dances this year proved to be the most successful in the annals of Auburn's society set.

Many fair ones blossoming out from our Southern States were here to add to the delightfulness of the occasion.

The merriment was started Friday night by a fitting dance with the Alpha Tau Omega and Phi Delta Theta Fraternities as hosts of the event.

Saturday morning an informal dance was given at the Kappa Alpha House by the Thendara's. This proved to be one of the most thoroughly enjoyable dances of the festivities.

After the football game Saturday afternoon another informal dance was given by the Phi Delta Theta Fraternity at their home.

The dance Saturday night given by the Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Kappa Sigma Fraternities proved to be a fitting climax for so glorious an occasion.

Among the number of visiting young ladies were: Misses Eugenia Byars, Marion Aubach, Sara Solomon, of Montgomery, Ala.; Jessie Mae Dawson, Anna Wyl Pierce, of Columbus, Ga.; Kitty McElderry, of Talladega, Ala.; Ruth Thompson and Dorothy Cole Gardner of Newnan, Ga.; Birdie Cline and Anna Wilmore, of Auburn, Ala.; Martha Moore of Opelika, Ala.; and Mary Lee Webb, of Tuscaloosa, Ala.; Alice Clapp of Selma, Ala.; Bess Holly of Lowndesboro, Ala.; Marion Ponder of Columbus, Ga.; Florence Lackley of Vicksburg, Miss.; Alberta Price, Juliette Wiley, Louise Johnson, Francis Wert, Sara Haardt, Irvine Browder, Elizabeth Brown and Sara Evans, of Montgomery, Ala.; Pauline McKenzie, of Tallassee, Ala.

Royal Order Of Antique Fleas

One of the very interesting events of the past week-end was the establishing of the fifth chapter (Alabama Beta) of the Royal Order of Antique Fleas, here at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. After the installation of officers a banquet was held for the new members.

It might be of interest to note the rapid development of this order and principle for which it stands.

The beautiful young lady caught her foot in the railroad irons in some manner. She could not unfasten it and an onrushing train was thundering down upon her. Death stared her in the face. But she was a resourceful maiden. Just as the train was about to strike her she loosed her flowing hair, placed it on the track, and the train ran off on the switch.

SONG OF THE COLLEGE MAIL.

The squires and knights of fair romance

Are gone—ah, years ago;
It's farewell, Chevaliers of France
And men of the English bow;
Oh it's hustle and bustle and push today,
Till fools and poets and such
Must hie away to a Breton lay
For a gentle fairy's touch.

But what to me is chivalry
And what is the age of steel,
Since I am Romance still, pardie,
Of pen and space and wheel?
For I am Poetry and Prose,
And with an equal grace
I'd sing the tale of a cotton bale
Or Cleopatra's face.

'Tis all the day I hold my court,
And all the day I call.
Vassal and liege of every sort—
Doctor, co-ed, grind and sport—
Unto my council hall;
And some drift in with a merry jest
And some with a brow of care,
To learn the strange unknown behest
Of me, who called them there.

It's "Hello, when'll the mail arrive?"
"Are the letters up by now?"
"Let's have some mail in sixty-five,"
"I don't care anyhow,"
It's "Why the Dicken's don't they write,"
"Get mine too, if you will"
And "Gee, but the Old Man treats me white—
The Devil—It's a bill."

And one has got a Latin jack,
And one a magazine,
And one a letter edged in black,
And one hears from his "Queen,"
For I am Poetry and Prose,
And with an equal grace
I sing the tale of a cotton bale
Or Cleopatra's face.

DEBATING TEAM TO START WORK

Plans Formulated

Last year marked Auburn's first entrance into the Intercollegiate Debating field. Two debates were held during that year, one with the Agricultural and Mechanical College of North Carolina, the other with Tulane University. Auburn easily won the contest from North Carolina but lost the decision to Tulane, the vote of the judges being two to one against her. This was not such a bad record for our first year, especially when we consider that the Tulane teams are generally the South's best.

This year finds us without the services of Wilkerson and Campbell, two brilliant and forceful debaters. Wilkerson, probably the best debater who ever set foot in Langdon Hall did not return this year; Campbell graduated last June. Still we have some excellent men left, though few of them have had the experience of the above pair.

Prof. Certain, in cooperation with the Debating Council, has been very active the last few weeks in an effort to arrange a suitable schedule for the year.

Debates with both North Carolina A. and M. and Mississippi A. and M. are practically assured, the working out of some minor details only being necessary. In addition Tulane will probably give us a date on her schedule, and this will mean a trip to New Orleans for the team.

Every Auburn student is eligible for the debating teams. Try-outs are held and merit only decides. Come out and do your best when the try-outs are held.

Any man can borrow trouble without bank references or security.

AUBURN, ALA., OCTOBER 15, 1915

It is not often that this paper will contain a message to one individual or to a set of individuals which expresses the sentiment of our entire student body, but we would like to give a few remarks on the DIABOLICAL SNEAK or SNEAKS who recently spent a few hours of their valuable time effacing the class numerals on the tank with the term "RATS."

This stunt was not smart, it was not fresh, and it did not bring the results that its originator seemed to think it would. We have plenty excuses for the rats whose bad judgement caused them to make the first excursion to the tank, but for the person or persons who made the last two asinine visits there is no excuse, for there is not one of us but who fully realizes that the author of this deviltry was making rash attempt to stir up the members of the senior class against the rats.

It is not often that men who have passed through their "rat year" at college would wish to place themselves again in the role of "Freshie," but evidently in their early days of freshness at the A. P. I. a very large spark was left still burning, which has recently flamed into the greatest piece of freshness that has ever been demonstrated here. It would give us great joy to have an inspection for their benefit, wherein they would take the place of our rats and we would certainly ask the rats to join us in having a good time with their carcass.

We have a strong suspicion as to who the originator of this crude joke was, as he was not clever enough to hide all traces. For the benefit of our readers we will say it is not a rat or a senior who is suspected; neither is it a Sophomore or a Junior, nor any of the specials.

We will not attempt to set any degree of punishment befitting this attempt at mischief making but needless to say something is likely to be stirring if the early morning work is again repeated. Our readers may guess our riddle.

All "Rats" remember Friday

It was October first
We were so hugely tickled
That we were like to burst.

Twass then we got our buttons,
So dear to every heart
That never a rat in all the class
Would from his button part.

O 'tis a button all of green
And furthermore than that
Embellished with this striking word
In letters huge—just R-A-T.

We pin it on our nighties
Whene'er we seek the hay;
We pin it on our coat lapels
To greet the new-born day.

O we are truly thankful
To be the first rats seen
Upon the streets of Auburn
With such a badge of green.
W. C. E., '19.

The big games of the football season are here now. We have great faith in our team, and we want the players to know it. For that reason every man in college is urged to attend every football practice he possibly can and to cheer for the boys while he is there.

There is one thing that has always characterized football at Auburn. That is that besides our truly great football heroes, we have a large and faithful scrub team. The "scrubs" are as faithful as the varsity, and deserve to be encouraged for their services. Too much praise cannot be given them, so come out and root for Auburn's future stars. As a final word, let us say that the sooner you put "Football Lab" on your schedule, the happier you will be, and the more spirit the team will have.

A fool that can't see anyone but himself, misses seeing a lot of funny things. However, he does not miss them all.

Place a value on yourself and never mark it down.

It is the man who doesn't work who talks most about hard times.

Some fellows never reach their second childhood, they just continue their first.

When some boys go to college they lie so about the size of their dad's farm that they can hardly recognize it when they go home.

The less logic there is to a man's logic the louder he talks.

Now that mid-term examinations are drawing near, it is time to seriously get down to work. One of the most difficult tasks of our college careers is to get seriously to our books in the fall. Football and other outside activities take up a large part of our time, and until examination time rolls around we do not realize how little we have studied.

Now, the prime object of our stay in Auburn is to acquire knowledge. We realize that all knowledge does not come from books, but just look over our faculty's attainments, and you will see that most of it does. Therefore it is time for all of us to begin to grind and dig for information that will get us by on these first mid-terms.

Some men are born great; others have greatness thrust upon them—A sentence that never touches upon the life of a college weekly editor.

"Well, and did you enjoy your dinner," asked a passenger of another on a European steamer the first day out.

"Don't mention it," said the other feelingly; "don't mention it. It's a good deal like the financial question in congress."

"How's that?"

"Why, it's liable to come up at any moment."

IN LECTURE.

Funchess: "Yellow corn and white corn have same composition."

Isbell: "Professor, ain't it a fact that a bushel of yellow corn makes a pint more whiskey than a bushel of white corn?"

IN EDUCATION.

Prof. Judd: "The teacher realizes the responsibility when the eye of the teacher looks into the eyes of the pupil and soul meets soul in warm understanding."

Co-Ed Stodghill: "Oh, how sudden."

Should "Happiness" be stamped on every dollar?

The faculty should certainly be well satisfied with the opening dances this year. Throughout the entire time the girls were here there was always a spirit of cooperation. The boys seemed at all times eager to conduct themselves in a manner which they knew would reflect credit.

Probably this is due to the fact that most of the society set are looking forward to some Easter dances. In this event, it is our belief, that as good or even better behavior can be expected.

NOT PARTICULAR.

John was waiting for the answer that would play such an important role in his future life. It seemed hours before Mary answered:

"John," she said at last, "there's one thing I want to ask you before giving my answer. 'Do you drink anything?'"

At this his heart grew light (was this all she wanted to know) and as he clasped her in her arms he whispered in her shell-like ear, "Yes, Darling, Anything."

Agricultural Notes

R. E. CAMMACK

On last Friday night the Agricultural Club enjoyed a very interesting talk given by Prof. Ross. He spoke on "The Relations of Chemistry to Agriculture." He made it very plain that the evolution of the science of Agriculture is due largely to the work of chemists.

There were several members of the Agricultural faculty present. After Prof. Ross had finished his address, each one of them made a short talk to the club. The principal subject matter of their talks was: Congratulations to the Club on its splendid work; encouraging each member to be an active, wide-awake worker for the club; and pledging their support at all times.

Every one is glad to see the interest the Freshman Class is taking in the work of the Club. If their interest and enthusiasm continues to grow as they pass from one year to the next it means that in four years from now the club will have increased in size and influence not yet dreamed of.

Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors all come out to the meetings on Friday nights and take an active part. By doing this we set a good example for the classes that follow us.

Saturday night the dance lovers of V. P. I. had an opportunity to indulge in this popular form of amusement at the hop given by the management of the 1916 Bugle in the German Club Hall.—Va. Tech.

Profanity: Atmosphere pressure when someone pranks with the lights.—The Gamecock.

The work of the Young Men's Christian Association this year is under the direction of Rev. W. W. Alexander, who was recently elected General Secretary.—Hustler.

A wireless station is being installed at L. S. U. as an addition to the electrical department.

Such a station had been anticipated by many students in the electrical engineering department. Construction has already begun on this new structure and will very likely be completed within the next month.—Reveille.

After careful consideration of the advantages to be derived from joining the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association, the athletic authorities of Carolina made this college a member of the association.—Gamecock.

Plans for the L. S. U. exhibits at the State Fair at Shreveport, to open on November 3, are fairly under way and those who are to have charge of the exhibits think that this year's display will be the best ever shown.—Reveille.

The number of students registered has grown to 485. In the school of law 65, and 420 in the academic department. At this date last year only 425 registrations had been made. This indicates that the attendance for the ensuing year will be greater than that of 1914-15.—Gamecock.

The annual class rush between the Sophomore and Freshman classes was won Saturday by the Freshmen. This is one of the few rushes on record which has resulted in a victory for the entering class.—Holcad.

THE SKIRTED ANIMAL.

Half an inch, half an inch,
Half an inch shorter.
Whether the skirts are for Mother or Daughter.
Briefer the dresses grow.
Fuller the ripples flow,
While whisking glimpses show
More than they oughter.

Forward the dress parade.
Is there a man dismayed?
No. From the sight displayed
None could be sundered.
Theirs not to make remark;
Clergyman, clubman, clerk—
Gaping from noon till dark
At the Four Hundred.

Short skirts to right of them.
Shorter to left of them.
Shortest in front of them,
Flaunted and flirited.
In hose of stripe and plaid,
Hued most exceeding glad,
Sporting in spats run mad,
Come the short-skirted.

Flashed all their ankles there;
Flashed as they turned in air
What will not women dare?
(Though the exhibits show
Some of them blundered).
All sorts and types of pegs—
Broomsticks, piano legs;
Here and there fairy shapes,
Just built to walk on eggs,
Come by the hundred.

When can their glory fade?
Oh, the wild show they made.
All the world wondered.
Grand dame and demoiselle,
Shop girl and Bowery Belle—
Four Hundred? H'm—oh, well—
Any old hundred.
—Carolyn Wells in Judge.

DEATH GOES CALLING.

Pale Death dropped in at my bright
fireside,
To warm his hands a wee;
And I made him cheer and bade
him bide,
But he fled away from me.

He sought my friend, in the lone midnight,
When firelight shudders dim;
My friend shrank back in mortal fright—
Death stalked away with him.

Death called on my heart with fearful din
He beat at the door I barred;
But my heart kept tryst with love within;
Without, death left his card.
Anon.

Arm yourself with a dark lantern when looking for honor among thieves.

It takes an unusually handsome woman to wreck a sensible man's train of thought.
